Summary of research outputs and impact:

- 130 publications: 83 peer-reviewed journal articles (54 in Q1 journals since 2016), 22 book chapters, 5 books, 13 reports, 6 online publications, and 1 conference proceeding. As of 24th February 2025, this excludes a further 10 articles submitted to top journals (e.g., Psychological Bulletin, Journal of Happiness Studies, Work & Stress, Cognitive Therapy and Research) that are in review, or revise and resubmit stages).
- Field Weighted Citation Impact of 1.81⁶ (2014-2023, Scopus).
- H-index 27, i10-index 50 (Google Scholar).
- 13 PhD, 1 Doctorate, and 7 Master's student completions. An additional 3 PhD as of 2025.
- Thesis and dissertation examinations of 8 PhDs, 10 Master's, and 4 dissertations.
- Research and consultancy funding to a total of $1,908,294 (2009 - 2024).

RESEARCH GRANTS AND CONSULTANCIES

My research program continues to investigate and understand, and then change, the determinants of human wellbeing on larger scales in sectors of need and influence. My funded research generally investigates who thrives in life, why, and under what conditions, and as such, this includes many consultancies related to these themes; more recently focusing on the education sector. Total grant and consultancy income to date: $1,908,294 ($1,200,000 from the Sovereign NZ Wellbeing Index project). Further details and breakdown of these projects are available at <http://www.aaronjarden.com/professional-page.html>.

COMMERCIALISATION OF RESEARCH

Based on academic research I have developed, and then commercially sold, two web-based assessment tools to help practitioners apply wellbeing science to higher standards: 1) Work on Wellbeing which helps organisations and practitioners conduct empirically validated wellbeing assessments, and 2) Assessing Wellbeing in Education which helps schools conduct wellbeing assessments across various age groups in their context. I have lead the development of four further wellbeing tools which are in different stages of the commercialization process: 1) Foundations of Wellbeing is an online wellbeing skill building course, which has been trialed with large corporates in Australia (e.g., MacDonalds Restaurants, Reece Plumbing, and MGSE at UoM), 2) the My Wellbeing Planner which helps individuals plan for wellbeing in a mentoring and coaching context and has been in the education market for three years, 3) and the Wellbeing Literacy Program and Indigenous Adapted Wellbeing Literacy Program, which helps develop the language for and about wellbeing to build wellbeing capability.

AWARDS AND RECOGNITION

MEDIA

I have featured in various national and international pre-eminent media, including: Psychology Today, The Huffington Post, Live Happy, Mindfood, Good Health, Radio New Zealand, Radio Live, ABC Radio, 3AW Radio, TV3, TV1, Prime TV, the New Zealand Herald, Stuff, North & South, The Advertiser, The Dominion Post, the ABC, The Conversation, Pursuit, The Age, BBC, and the Sydney Morning Herald. Beyond formal media, I have also been on various podcasts discussing key issues in the field of wellbeing science, such as The School of Wellbeing, and Researching Happy.

PRESENTATIONS

As a sought after and regularly invited prolific presenter, I have over 165 conference and other public presentations which are listed in full at www.aaronjarden.com/aarons-professional-page.html.

INNOVATIONS AND INFLUENCE

Over the last 27 years since graduating, I have expanded my experience beyond academia, focusing on the scientist-practitioner loop, developing a range of initiatives as a social entrepreneur with a focus on wellbeing and my stated mission. This has involved founding or co-founding many entities that all aim to investigate human wellbeing and improve it on larger scales. Some examples of these include: 1) The Tuesday Program (<http://www.thetuesdayprogram.com>), one of the first freely available online wellbeing courses, 2) chair of the Wellbeing in Higher Education Network (<http://www.wellbeinginhighereducation.com>) which documents resources and examples of tertiary institutions embracing positive education, 3) the Wellbeing Adventure Race (<https://tinyurl.com/erx45u7y>) series which teaches real-world, empirically validated, wellbeing and resilience skills in an Amazing Race adventure format. Beyond useful translation of the science, I have had major influence in communicating the science by leading 6 conferences (3 Wellbeing and Public Policy conferences, 3 New Zealand Association of Positive Psychology conferences), and have played pivotal roles in many other conference – for example, I co-chaired the 'experience design committee' for the 2023 World Congress on Positive Psychology, and in 2026 I am co-chair of the Scientific Committee for the largest conference in the field of positive psychology, the European Congress on Positive Psychology.

TOP CHARACTER STRENGTHS

Yearly assessments of my character strengths using the empirically validated VIA™ tool reveal my top strengths as:

1. Social intelligence: Being aware of the motives/feelings of others and oneself; knowing what to do to fit into different social situations; knowing what makes other people tick.

2. Leadership: Encouraging a group of which one is a member to get things done and at the same time maintain good relations within the group; organising group activities and seeing that they happen.
3. Prudence: Being careful about one's choices; not taking undue risks; not saying or doing things that might later be regretted.
4. Honesty: Speaking the truth but more broadly presenting oneself in a genuine way and acting in a sincere way; being without pretense; taking responsibility for one's feelings and actions.
5. Perspective: Being able to provide wise counsel to others; having ways of looking at the world that make sense to oneself/others.

Yearly assessments of my VIA character strengths also reveal the strengths of teamwork, judgement, and love of learning to be consistently in and around the top five (3 to 7 range).

PERSONAL LEADERSHIP STATEMENT

I believe that great leaders look ahead, but also across the organisation and take steps to understand the context of the organisation. They display courage and take considered risks, whilst acting on what they believe is right, even if this may be challenging. They also help others find their paths that will grow and advance them, while considering the organisation and its objectives. To do this a good leader needs to know what the organisation, and the people that are leading it stand for. With this understanding it is then much easier to collaborate to gain access to resources for action. What I have learnt is that leadership is not about being out in front, but having the power and forethought to convene, to bring together, to shine focus, and to facilitate and achieve a common goal. Leadership is not about control or command; it is about thinking of partnerships, the people that can assist, and the vision. It is about gathering quality information, testing ideas, seeking feedback, reflecting on options (usually under time pressure), and then acting decisively, with rationale and confidence. Leadership is also not about having all the answers, but listening and accepting, and realising that no one is perfect or can do it all. Lastly, good leadership is about loving what you do and not compromising the values that sustain you. For the five and half years I have been at UoM I have frequently spoken of “Team Uni Melbourne” and this, ‘we are the organisation’ approach, embodies my philosophy and values.
